Headline:
Hazy sunshine and showers.

Today:
Another hot day, although a little cooler than recently. A bright start with hazy sunshine throughout. Largely dry for most, but with a risk of a sharp isolated shower from late morning onwards, possibly thundery in the west. Maximum temperature 29 deg C (84 deg F).

Tonight:
Any residual showers fade away to give a dry and bright evening, with patchy cloud or hazy skies. Rain, heavy and possibly thundery at times, arrives over southern areas overnight. Minimum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Saturday:
Heavy, blustery rain will clear northwards through the morning, with drier conditions and sunny spells following. Heavy and thundery showers develop across the south into the afternoon. Feeling much cooler. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunny spells and scattered showers Sunday, some of these thundery in the early hours. Further thundery showers possible Monday and Tuesday, with more widespread downpours on Tuesday. Breezy around coasts.
